

The Berliner Ferienschulen are holiday schools where children and young people can improve their German language skills, or, indeed, learn it from scratch. Boys and girls alike are taught German in groups of up to 15. Alongside language teaching, the holiday schools also offer sports, cultural and creative activities.

The groups are run by organisations throughout Berlin. Holiday schools run for six hours a day over a two-week period during the Easter and autumn holidays, and from two to six weeks during the summer holidays.

Through guided tours of the city, sports and creative workshops, children and young people will discover new interests and skills. In addition, they will explore sports clubs, leisure centres and other things to do in Berlin, as well as make new friends.

Participation in holiday schools is free. To register for a study group, simply complete and submit the Invitation to participate in a holiday school to the respective institution.

Please note: The Berliner Ferienschulen are a popular offer for children and young people who want to improve their German language skills during the holidays. Not everyone who is interested can be guaranteed a place. It is therefore important that registered participants actually attend classes and activities at the holiday school on a regular basis – otherwise an opportunity is taken away from other children and young people as places are left vacant.

The Berliner Ferienschulen are coordinated by the German Children and Youth Foundation. Find further information at: <http://www.dkjs.de/ferienschulen/>
